Our Eyes Are Two Dry Wells

Posted on 2013/01/03

by Li Bifeng

Eyes – these two dry wells Deep in the puzzled gazes there once fertile sludge is hidden The seedlings of love were burned out through the fire of tears
We live on the other side of grief Over the high wall, we watch the sun from afar and the mountains from afar In the dreams of nights, we see people from afar
Using the net of yearning we salvage those scattered memories and then we let the bones grow into the bones
